

Pump Summit Düsseldorf NEW in Hall 7.0

01 October 2015

Pump Summit Düsseldorf on 29 and 30 November 2016 will move from the Congress Center Düsseldorf to Hall 7.0 of the Düsseldorf Exhibition Centre. This will bring the networking event for pump experts closer to the parallel running Valve World Conference & Expo 2016, November, 29 to December, 1, 2016. "We want to strengthen the synergies between Pump Summit and Valve World Expo", states Marcus Rohrbacher, Director Pumps EMEA of KCI GmbH. "Expo visitors can reach Pump Summit easily directly via the North Entrance."

The networking event for pump experts powered by Pump Engineer and Pumpen Aktuell will feature again a trade exhibition with an accompanying international conference. Manufacturers, distributors and users of pumps and seals will have the opportunity to present their products to an international audience as well as share their knowledge and expertise. The conference's technical presentations and selected workshops will focus on pump and sealing applications in a variety of industries – including chemical and petrochemical, oil and gas, power generation, industry and building services, shipbuilding, water and wastewater and many more. The conference will also move into Hall 7.0. This move means conference content is to be embedded in the exhibition activities and conference delegates are to be brought closer to exhibitor ranges.
